CLASS SONG

March on, sixty-six march on,
Carry your banner high,
Fling it to the sky,
Going fast, shooting sparks all the way.

March on, sixty-six march on,
Over the finish line,
Victory sublime,
Tread with might, with our light blazing the way.

Triumphantly we sing,
Long may our voice ring,
Forever echoing for years to come.

March on, sixty-six march on,
Time is quickly sped,
Bravely forge ahead,
Carry on to the dawn of the day.

JOYCE ELOISE ABBOTT

"Life is real! Life is earnest!"
Henry Wadsworth Longfellow

"To everything there is a season,
And a time for every purpose under the heaven: . . .
A time to weep, and a time to laugh;
A time to mourn and a time to dance; . . .
A time to get and a time to lose; . . .
A time to keep silence and a time to speak; . . ."
Ecclesiastes

Library Committee 4.

"How do you hold a wave upon the sand?" It's easier than holding the package of bouncy gaiety bombing through the hall waving a letter or desperately looking for lost French notes. A sun always shining with warm rays of humor, sympathy and understanding.

"A flibbety gibbet — a will-o-the-whisp . . ."

Yes, I do stop talking . . . sometimes.

The dust settled.
Pushing the debris aside, Martha emerged
instinctively into the clear
And smiled, and took a bow,
And made a revelant pun.
Martha clambered to her desk
Which was askew with complex treatises and artwork,
But she was distracted by a lonely lady bug
on the window
And sat down and wondered how it worked.

Ach y fi!

There was a little girl
A little girl was she,
She launched her boat one day
The world for to see—
She found
A sunny roof,
A lonely roof,
A green hat.
She took
A book
Of philosophy,
A smile,
A symphony.
And she stood on
Her toes and danced,
And wondered,
She stood on
Her toes and wondered.

Mouse, Mousus est

The little blond mouse with feather in cap perches happily on a chair and expounds upon Maine summers, especially S.W. Harbor. She'll be sailing one moment and then next thing you know, she's on the soccer fields at Hebron. There's never a dull moment. When she's not reminiscing, she's eagerly listening—"Gosh, really?" or busily writing letters—"I only got three letters today." The phone rings—"It's for me!" And, of course, it is. Hers always seem very fine.
A Rolling Stone gathers no moss
And yet WBZ often must bear a loss.
A rose by any other name would still smell as sweet,
But then most people don't plant them on a seat.
Late to bed, early to rise
Makes a girl unhealthy, but wealthy and wise.
A little work, a little play,
And so she goes on each day.

Who's the girl in knickers and wooden shoes? She just emerged from messy bed in racoon coat waving Dartmouth banner, reading "Cynosure". Inside information: summer '67 will be found touring Europe by Honda, getting "Satisfaction." She also dropped "Help"ful hints about trip south combatting S.F. and "Happie" summers. Finally identified: at midnight rendezvous of Play Club, discussing the fact the "Illya" too few summers.

No, Jane, there's nothing wrong with humanity. Why, you saw for yourself in Paris, the modern Sodom. Life is just water running through the gutter, and isn't it pretty? If the whole world were that ideal, he . . . who could be wicked? Why, certainly not funny-looking little people with French names and things.

sometimes reflects the outward face of things;
Yet refracts the penetrating shafts of light
that never touch the core without response.
Serenity disturbing—until a shimmer in the lake
